MUSICAL NOTES

Brilliant Piano Recital to Mark Opening of Leach-Wood School.

Moonlight Concert and Excursion
July 10th.—Addition to Norfolk's List of Singers—General Musical Matters.

When Leach-Wood School opens in October next, during the first week of the term, Mr. Wm. Richards, the newly engaged teacher of vocal music, who sings at Christ Church, will give a song recital at the hall of Leach-Wood School to the pupils and friends of the school. The event will be looked forward to with much pleasure by lovers of choice music.

On Sunday next Prof. Krueger's orchestra at Ocean View will be augmented to twenty-five men under his personal direction. They will be in full summer uniform.

Miss Emily La Blanc played a piano solo and part in a duet at the commencement exercises at Fenchurch Street School on Friday night and made a marked success. For a young player she exhibited good technique and brilliancy in her playing.

"Where is My Boy To-night?" the new song by Messrs. Norton & Casey, will be out of the press and on sale this week. Garry and Walters will introduce it at Ocean View with stereoscopic slides. The slides specially made for it by the Chicago Transparency Company will be received Monday. Professional copies have been secured by many of America's well known ballad singers, so the new ballad will soon be heard in many parts of the country.

Mr. Henry Yahn, of Norfolk, the publisher of the song entitled "Make Him Dance," reports that the first edition of the song is exhausted and that the second edition is now in press.

"Only You," is the title of a new song by V. Langhorne and R. E. Whittemore, which will soon be ready for publication. It is a pretty little song and will probably win popularity.

That Norton & Casey are up-to-date song writers and that their ideas are new and profitable is well shown by the fact that in the short space of two months they have placed with their publishers six new songs, the worth of each being attested by the fact that not a single manuscript was returned bearing the publishers' mark. "Refugee" and "Only You" have been sent to M. Witmark & Sons, who have accepted it is no doubt considered a "good thing" by the publishers. Norton & Casey's contract with the W. A. Evans Music Company, of Boston, having been declared null and void, places Norton & Casey in a position to consider a recent communication from a well known music publishing house that embodies the offer of a snug sum for all their joint writings for the season 1898-1899, which begins September 1st, 1899. They have completed all their writings for the season '98-'99 and will have several new songs to open the new season with. Mr. Casey will soon place with his publishers a new march that bids fair to keep good pace with his now famous march, "The Charge of the Rough Riders."

Norfolk is fast becoming well known as a publishing center. It is reported that a large and well-known New York publishing company will soon open a branch house in this city and place in charge two of our most prominent and successful song producers. If the rumor is true we can but remember the old adage that "Consent creates work," and look for some warm times in this village when the rival houses begin to advertise and push their different song productions. Singers will be besieged with requests and offers to publish each respective firm's publications, and we can look for diligent song "pushing" in every conceivable form.

"Hungarians are musical; they must be when a band as good as Sousa's, and far ahead of others in the precision, snap and effect with which they play their numbers, is found to be made up entirely of youths quite young, bright looking, thoroughly intelligent and under fine control. The audience last night grew wildly enthusiastic."—San Francisco Chronicle.

The foregoing, taken from the San Francisco Chronicle, refers to the famous Schilzongy's Hungarian Boys' Military Band of forty musicians, ranging in age from six to sixteen years, which has been engaged by the Norfolk and Ocean View Railroad Company for the week commencing Sunday, July 2d, to give afternoon and evening concerts at their favorite resort, Ocean View.

Miss Blanche Hecht, who recently returned from Boston, where she graduated in elocution and vocal music at the New England Conservatory, took part in the commencement exercises of Fenchurch street school at Masonic Temple Friday evening, and made a brilliant success. She displays wonderful ability as an elocutionist, being strong in gesture, modulation, inflection and all that is required in a skilled elocutionist. As a singer she possesses a pleasing mezzo-soprano voice, which she has under perfect control. At the commencement exercises spoken of, she was compelled to respond to three entreaties. Miss Hecht will be a valuable and welcome addition to the musical circles of Norfolk.

The Langhorne Music Company has contracted with Mr. George A. Norton to publish a "coon" song by him entitled, "I Got a Message From Ma Baby." This is a well-written story, replying to George Coon's, "I Guess I'll Have to Telegraph My Baby."

Among the popular ballads that are in the repertoire of Carlin & Clark's Minstrels, which were at Ocean View last week, are "She Was Born in Old Virginia" by Mr. Robert Whittemore, and "In the Shenandoah Valley," by Norton & Casey.

ment will result in a still choicer musical program. Aside from the many local singers who will participate, the attendance of the Seaboard Air Line band has been secured. This will add very much to the attractions of the evening, and the many who go will be well repaid for their former disappointment.

Mr. George A. Norton, the well-known Norfolk composer of popular ballads, will to-day welcome home his father, Mr. C. E. Norton, who is assistant quartermaster at Pinar del Rio, Cuba, and is now on furlough. Mr. George Norton and his mother will return with his father to Cuba in August, where George will accept a position in the quartermaster's department. We may soon expect to see published a stirring Cuban ballad from Mr. Norton's facile pen, as he has arranged to still continue his work of song composition.

VIRGINIA BEACH.

DONNING GALA DRESS FOR THE FOURTH—PERSONAL.

Virginia Beach, July 1.—The Princess Anne has already put on a gala dress for the glorious Fourth. The office and ball-room are elaborately decorated with bunting and flags and the dining-room with evergreens. Applications for rooms have been received until nearly all have been taken, and the cottages are filled to overflowing.

The arrangements for the gala on the morning of the Fourth are nearly completed by Messrs. John Wingfield and James H. Johnston. Rumor has it that a number of young men from Danville, who were here last year, will arrive Tuesday to take part.

Mr. and Mrs. David Dunlap returned to Petersburg on Thursday last.

The Vandergrift party will arrive this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patterson, Mrs. George Taylor, Misses Marguerite and Bayne Taylor, of Norfolk; Miss Virginia Cooper and Miss Warfield, of Baltimore, arrived at Mrs. John Eggleston's cottage to-day to spend the month of July.

Miss Myra Vaughan is at Mrs. Boush's cottage.

Miss Edith Tunis will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Adams during the coming week.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Parker and Miss Parker, formerly of Kansas City, are at Mrs. Fair's cottage.

Misses Pattie Taylor, Louise and Mabel Donsal and Miss Gertrude Walke, chaperoned by Mrs. Wm. Baldwin, have taken the Fisher cottage for a house party.

Invited to accompany them are Messrs. R. C. and Frank Taylor, William Shield, W. Mayo and Wm. Baldwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Camp are at the Gordon cottage.

Miss Lucie McDonald, of New York, and Miss Nan Snodgrass, of Harrisburg, Pa., are the guests of Miss Ida Gordon.

Mr. Frank Taylor gave a party Thursday at the Atlantic Club complimentary to Miss Cooke, who is visiting Mrs. Richard Waldron.

Misses Taylor, Chamberlain, and Lucy Hayes, Mrs. George McIntosh, Mrs. Richard Wright, Messrs. R. C. Taylor, F. Wilson, Tench Tilghman, Charles McIntosh and Richard Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Lowenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Camp, Mr. and Mrs. Matherson and children are at the Princess Anne.

OCEAN VIEW.

THE SEASON ON AND A FINE BUSINESS ASSURED.

Ocean View, July 1.—The present numerous and pleasing company of guests at the Ocean View Hotel, which is now doing a fine season's business, is enjoying all the many features which make life there agreeable, and many people are coming every day to swell the list of visitors.

Many of the best known Norfolk citizens are now visitors to the View for the afternoon and evening, coming for a bath and supper, which, like the view, is of the highest quality. The service in excellent style, the food is furnished free at the Ocean View Hotel, or going into the ball-room of the hotel, they spend the evening delightfully.

The music for the dancing is furnished and directed by Prof. Krueger, director of the Academy of Music Orchestra, and lately in charge of music at the Monticello Hotel, Norfolk, so that his excellence is assured, there having been so far only satisfactory expressions by the throngs of youthful dancers who come nightly from Norfolk to enjoy the dance here.

Many and important improvements, made at Ocean View by the Norfolk and Ocean View Railway Company, are to be seen by visitors, and these may be mentioned in brief. A new and commodious bath-house for visitors to the hotel and the pavilion, flower beds, baseball grounds, golf links and the new office and bar pavilion of the hotel. This new office of the hotel is a beautiful and comfortable one, furnished in Colonial style and fitted with open fire places, writing tables, comfortable chairs, sofas, mirrors, roomy desks and counters for the office force of the house, and bright with electric lights. The bathing, bathing and fishing at Ocean View are very enjoyable now, and the surf is full of fish every day, the perfect safety of the bathing grounds there being a great cause of the popularity of them.

All things considered, there has never been a more pleasing evening of the season at Ocean View, and the indications are, as there will be no effort spared to run the hotel on a strictly first-class and modern basis.

Messrs. Kennedy and Woodley, who are well known hotel men of Norfolk, are the lessees of the Ocean View Hotel for the season. Mr. W. J. McDonald, so long of Park Hotel, Richmond, is chief clerk, with Mr. W. R. Hogg, of Baltimore, as bookkeeper and cashier.

TRIPOLI STREET

What Messrs R. A. Dobie, Thomas Townsend, Barton Myers and Judge Garnett Have to Say About Extension of this Thoroughfare.

In pursuance of its desire to give publicity to the views of the leading citizens of Norfolk in regard to the proposed opening of Tripoli street, the Virginian-Pilot to-day prints interviews with several well-known gentlemen, who have large interests here and whose ideas on any subject relating to the best interests of the city have weight.

MR. R. A. DOBIE.

Mr. Richard A. Dobie, when asked for his views on the subject, said: "I believe that streets should be opened whenever there is a general demand for them by the public, as a general proposition."

As to the opening of Tripoli street, I believe that public necessity demands the opening as far out as Freeman street. Beyond that I am not familiar enough with the matter to express an opinion. If the public needs it opened out to James street, I believe it should be opened. It is not now needed by the public, but it is to be opened for the benefit of the street railway company. I think that the company should bear its reasonable portion of the expense."

JUDGE THEODORE S. GARNETT.

In pursuance of the policy of the Virginian-Pilot to freely give all sides of every matter of public interest, a representative of this paper called on Judge T. S. Garnett and requested a statement of his views on this matter. He declined to speak a word for publication.

MR. THOMAS TOWNSEND.

When approached on the subject of Tripoli street opening, Mr. Thomas Townsend, of the real estate firm of Townsend & Joyes, and president of the Norfolk Real Estate and Stock Exchange, said:

"I think the opening of Tripoli street has now become a public necessity. It should have been done years ago. A large amount of property will be made available for building purposes by the opening of this street, which is now practically of no value either to its owners or to the city. It is a good street for a railroad, but it is out into the county it must enhance values of this property very materially. I think it will enhance the value of property on James street nearly half. A street that has been at a standstill, or nearly so, for the past twenty years."

"Improvement is the order of the day, and when any combination, company or individual, can influence and bring from our larger and wealthier cities the sum of seven or eight hundred thousand dollars to be expended in labor and improvements directly in our midst, I think it is the duty of each and every one of us to assist so far as possible in such an enterprise, and not to place ourselves in the line as obstructionists."

"I have not one dollar's interest in the Hampton Roads Company. On the contrary, I am interested in Lambert's Point. I do not wish to see the road laid through Tripoli street to Sewell's Point, but our present road extended to Lambert's Point, or any other point or place around our city, will do us no harm. It is a matter of work to one end, and that to be the building up of the old borough of Norfolk and making of her a city that shall be a credit, not only to the citizens, but to the old Commonwealth of Virginia."

MR. BARTON MYERS.

Mr. Barton Myers said: "I think the street should be opened. This is a very auspicious time to open it. I think the property along the line of the street will enhance in value and build up rapidly after Tripoli street is opened. It is unusual in opening streets that the city is not benefited by the time to bring about an immediate enhancement of values and to help increase the taxes from the start. I am not interested in the proposed street railway, except as a citizen and as a taxpayer, but I think that every citizen will be benefited by the building of the new railroad and by its reaching City Hall avenue. I don't think the city should hold back from opening the street at its own expense because the road is likely to receive some benefit from it. The question for the city to consider is the benefit she will receive from it, which would induce her to open that street at this time instead of deferring it."

opening Tripoli street for the first two years, there is good reason to believe that the increased taxes from the enhancement of values along the entire line of the new railroad, within the city limits, will pay the interest on the bonds in future years. Therefore the city will actually not only the opening of the street, but also the convenience of the railroad to her citizens and increase her facilities for rapid transit, give an additional impetus to her growth and enlarge her income from increased taxable values.

I recognize that the city should be compensated for valuable franchises, but we should discriminate in considering the matter. The franchise granted a city railway through the various populated streets of the city is one thing and the granting of convenient access into the city to a suburban road is altogether a different thing. None of the suburban roads heretofore constructed into Norfolk have been profitable to the originators. The Virginian Beach road has been twice foreclosed and the new road to Norfolk road is in the hands of a receiver. Not only has their business been unprofitable, but the public has been inconvenienced by the remote locations of the terminals.

The people interested in the proposed Sewell's Point road have been years trying to get capitalists North to join them in building to Sewell's Point, and they now recognize that for some time the business of the road must be uncommensurate, but they are coming in here to expend on the road and in collateral enterprises about a million dollars, and as I said before, we should not hold back from doing something which we must ultimately do anyhow, because they will receive some benefit from it if done now.

FURTHER INTERVIEWS.

The Virginian-Pilot in its issue of Tuesday next will publish other interviews on this subject, giving the views of other prominent citizens and property owners, and their reasons for favoring or opposing the present opening of Tripoli street.

THE WASHINGTON CADETS.

THEY WILL ARRIVE AT OCEAN VIEW TO-MORROW.

The Washington High School Cadets, a well known, efficient and popular military company, will come to Ocean View for an encampment, to last two weeks, beginning Monday morning, the boys having arranged to start from Washington on Friday, the Norfolk steamer, arriving at Ocean View via Old Point and Norfolk and Ocean View steamer and railway at 9 a. m. Monday.

Plans for this encampment were perfected at a meeting of the cadets, recently held in the National Guard Armory in Washington, after hearing the report of Captain J. Harry Bean, who came to Ocean View lately as a commander of the place for an encampment, and his report was heartily in favor of it.

Captain J. B. Robertson, of Company D, was president of this meeting. Captain J. B. Shannon was its treasurer, and Captain J. H. Robertson was secretary. Lieutenant Colonel Richard Evans will be detained in Washington, and so the battalion, to consist of two companies of fifty men each, will be under the command of Captain Robertson.

The cadets will put up their tents in the rear of the Ocean View Hotel, and the regular rules and discipline of camp life will be observed, the expenses of each man on the trip to be about $12.

At the last drill and meeting of the battalion, Captain Robertson, at the direction of Captain England, late of the volunteer army, and who will accompany the boys as military instructor, explained what was expected of them on this encampment at Ocean View.

They will wear white duck trousers, regulation coat, and black shoes, while each man will be expected to bring with him a sprig, can, fork, cleaning materials for his rifle, and other necessary things for life in camp. For a week past the boys have been drilling at the armory of the National Guard, Washington, and Captain England will instruct them in guard mount and extended order drill as it is intended that everything shall be done in a military manner at the camp.

On this trip the commissary department will be in charge of Captain T. O'Neil, whose experience in the army has been long, and will have the assistance of Joseph J. Stoenburg, the fine cook of Company L, First D. C. Volunteers. The officers who will be in command during this encampment are Captain J. B. Robertson, commanding the battalion; First Lieutenant A. M. Hark, adjutant; First Lieutenant J. Barry Buck, quartermaster; Captain Robert Shannon, Captain C. E. Young and First Lieutenant A. S. Weaver.

The cadets will bring a band of music, and daily concerts will be given, while dress parade in the afternoon will be a very attractive feature of their visit to Ocean View.

Every night there will be dance and promenade music in the ball room of the Ocean View Hotel, and of course, the cadets will be largely represented at the hops and balls which will occur during their stay.
